

A Divine Message of Hope

Today is for Living Not Surviving!

I was amazed and humbled that last month there were folks from 54 countries that viewed this website - last month, alone. Media reports say, “we are all in this together.” I agree—all over this world. Today, I wanted to share with you something that would fill you with Hope and Love. I wanted to share with you that many of God’s people from the Bible endured isolation and seclusion—King David, Joseph, Moses, even Abraham was sent into the wilderness, and present day, I have spent years in my form of isolation and seclusion. It is a place where God’s people learn to grow in a closer relationship with Him than they ever thought was possible. I wanted to tell you not to “resist” this time, but embrace it as a time, like none before, when you can truly seek the Lord as you have never had time in your busy, busy, busy lives, before. Then, I asked the Lord what He wanted me to share with you, today, 4/6/2020*:

“... Do you know Me, Debbie? Do you really, really know Me? Do you know Me, Debbie? Today is for Living, not Surviving. That is what I would like My people to know at this time. You were not created for sadness and grief. You, like all My Creations were created for praising and worshipping your Creator with Thankful Hearts. It is My delight when My children raise their voices in song and Jubilation, celebrating their Heavenly Father with adoration.

This is a day like many yet like none experienced before. Does this make this day to be filled with sadness or can you celebrate this day with great Hope knowing I love you and all My children. Not one of My children do I not hear when they call/cry out to Me. It is with their voices that they touch the heart of their Creator. This is not a time to be consumed with the ways of the world, filled with frustration and exasperation for what you do not have—it is a time to reach with your entire heart, mind, and soul and embrace not only My love for you but the love for one another.

When you are filled with overflowing Hope and My love, all that seems lacking fades and you are filled with an abundance you never knew existed. When filled with overflowing Hope and Love, then reach toward Me and I will hear you. I can do for you what no other can do. I can give you the guidance, counsel, teaching, wisdom, understanding—everything you need to live through this difficult time, but only when you put your fear, anger, helplessness, hopelessness aside and come to Me with your heart ready to receive all I have to share. For this is My way.

You can read of how others in the Bible have made it through difficult times. This is your time to learn to follow Me in a way you never knew existed. I will be your All-in-All, but only if you seek Me with your whole heart, mind, and soul. With My love, you will journey through this difficult time and will have grown closer in a relationship with Me. When you need strength; I have strength. When you need love; I am here to share My love with you. When you are alone or afraid; I am here - I promise to never leave nor forsake you. And, know, this too shall pass. I love you with a love that is all consuming. I gave My life for you so you would have everlasting life in Heaven with Me. Know that you are loved; it is the greatest strength you have and that is what you, Debbie, know that others may not know. Know what you know and know that you know it—HOPE!”

This is a special time for you to become treasure hunters in the midst of the difficulty. Please Stay isolated and Safe!

Debbie
