

God is Love but also says He is a Jealous God !!!

In 1 John Chapter 4 we read all about the love of God. In fact, in 1 John 4:7, we read how much that God loves us. In 1 John 4:16, we read that “God is Love.” In our own lives, we experience God’s love every day for it is only because of God, that we can love one another, as in 1 John 4:7—”... because love comes from God.” Understanding the nature of God we can grasp these statements as truth. But other truths are more difficult to accept. For instance in the Ten Commandments, Exodus 20:5, it is revealed by God Himself: “I, the Lord your God, am a jealous God.” As Christians in my nation, we have no problem grasping the first truth, but do we really understand what is meant by the 2nd? I want to share with you from a couple of my writings about some understandings that I have never heard others share. But first, I want to share from a writing about “truth.” (Remember my writings are from the Lord through the Holy Spirit)

From a writing of 3/24/2008: “... Debbie, My people perish not for the lack of My love, but for the lack of their own heart’s knowing of My love. They seek to have and to know about everything but the truth. They live life steeped in deception. They have built foundations of deception. Truth has been replaced with lies that are bought and sold at the highest bid. To protect their lives, they will sacrifice the innocent. Men’s hearts that have never sought to know and love their Father in Heaven are corrupt. They are polluted. They are unable to know the ways of God which is truth. Instead they seek to take short cuts rather than embrace the path of sanctification/purification—that which draws them close to God and allows them to think with His ways and to follow the Blue Print already engraved on their hearts. The ways of God are higher and at times the journey is harsh. But is there any other way to cleanse men’s hearts? ....”

From a writing of 3/5/2007: “... My children perish for the lack of knowledge, yet who takes the time to glean knowledge and wisdom from each day? My children perish not because of lack, but because of abundance, yet who takes the time to discern the simplest of truths (right and wrong?) My children perish in the midst of prosperity, yet who takes the time to glean from the fields of the heart of compassion? My children perish yet they live their lives exhausting themselves chasing after what is vanity. My children perish as they watch each other perish, yet holding onto pain and suffering, bitterness, difficulties, flailing, wandering, going nowhere, but chasing vanity and short lived rewards. My children perish in pools of discontentment, yet unable to reach into the well of Hope that awaits them because of their busyness and disbelief. My children perish not because of their physical pain or discomfort, but because of the ability to succeed in their own eyes. My children perish not because of their lack of knowledge or understanding, but because they seek not the wisdom and understanding of the Kingdom of God. My children perish not because they are loved by their Heavenly Father, but because they choose to love the world and not the ways of the Kingdom of God. My children perish as they prosper; not because of their need but because of their need to make the right choices. My children perish. I watch My children perish. Its time to help my children who perish ....”

The next writings will be very difficult to receive; they are difficult for me to read—more so, to share. One Easter, I read from Romans to Colossians and I highlighted in my Bible all the references to our selfish self-centered nature. I encourage you to do the same. From 10/26/2007: “... Before there was time; before there was a creation; before there was a universe, there was God. It is not enough that the creation knows that the Creator loves the creation—not all the plans of the Creator can the creation understand, but as the creation yields its will, more and more, to the ways of the Creator, then it will understand with a deeper understanding and it will Trust with a deeper Trust and Love with a deeper Love and have Hope Overflowing to endure any difficulties that come. You see, My children are perishing yet they can’t understand how when they are blinded. I’ve sent teachers. I’ve sent prophets. I’ve sent storms raging around them and even raging seas yet they do not hear nor do they see. ... Those with little Hope, perish .... Follow the path: Seek Me, Find Me, Know Me, Trust Me, Love Me, Have Hope and Life Eternal.”

The mission of www.jubilie.com is not one of “warning,” nor is it one of “mercy,” but our mission is help you to see what you have never seen before—to wake you up; it is the mission of “Awakening.” My purpose is just to share with you what the Lord has shared with me along my own wilderness journey path. Every year around Christmas and on Christmas Day, I seek the Lord for what He desires to share. I shared with you in the article entitled “Approaching Horses,” about the red, black, and green horses (nations) and the riders (the leaders of the nations) and their message. It was the recent seizure of a British tanker in the Strait of Hormuz that prompted this article. I felt I had to share what the Lord has shared with me through the Holy Spirit in what I call my writings. You see, I shared a portion of that writing on 12/25/2017 however, I would feel remiss if I didn’t share more of that writing: “.... Debbie, there are horses and riders making preparations to annihilate those I love and what do the teachers and leaders with platforms teach? What do they prepare My people to receive: Martial Law, Economic Collapse, Volcanoes, Earthquakes? How about the message being sent by the riders of the horses? ....

Debbie, today, those who say they love me are consumed with their own selfish self-centered desires and plans for their own benefit. I am just a fixture/an object to hold a place for a specific day each year on the calendar. The day that has been reserved to honor me has been replaced with traditions of men and diminished Me to the point the day is a day to celebrate families getting together. Debbie, I am a jealous God and there shall be no other gods before me. Man has now taken a day that was to honor Me and polluted it in a way that men’s traditions have overtaken the day reserved to honor Me.

As we share with one another this day, prepare as you have never prepared before. What you fear is as close as you could ever imagine. With a flash that comes as quick as a camera flash you will know to walk out your plan. It is not just one rider who is shouting of war; listen to the other riders. Your nation is vulnerable in ways you know not how. Stay prepared. Stay ready. ... Listen for the riders.”

Another one—it truly saddens me to read these, let alone share them. From 12/3/2013: “... Before you are great challenges that you know nothing of. You have once again been tested and tried in the fire of the fiery furnace. Your limits have been once again stretched and your wisdom has expanded. This trial and test came at a time of great Thanksgiving to your Lord. It was a time when your nation was celebrating, gathering together with family and friends—a day they celebrate in My honor, yet another day they know not of the One they celebrate. Their celebrations become one celebrated around an animal, a turkey. They gather together to watch football games. I am not invited into their celebration; I hold no position of honor—I am a thought, a duty, and then on with the celebration.

Debbie, I am a jealous God. There will be no other gods before Me. I have a place to dwell in the hearts of My people, yet I am not their first thought. I am like an appendage they add on out of ritual. They do not come to Me full of Thankfulness and Joy for all their blessings. Their thoughts are filled with selfishness/self-centeredness, with convenience, pleasure and men’s traditions, greed and materialism. Have they learned anything? Their nation is breaking/broken and yet they do not seek Me. Their focus is on an animal, a turkey. A turkey has little significance in My word. Debbie, what you do not know is upon you and your nation. It will come with the force of mighty winds and the force of atom bombs. .... They are blinded now, by their own selfish self-centered nature, but soon, all they know will no longer be. And I will be the Lord of their lives and they will be My people.”

Yes, there are many others I sadly report. But this is what there is room to share. When the difficulties come, you will know the truth. The greatest being: How Much God Loves You, and why it has to be.
