

The Awakening is Coming !!!

From a writing from the Lord through the Holy Spirit, dated 5/6/2010, as a response to my question regarding “Awakening.” His reply: “Debbie, Do you know Me? Do you know Me, Debbie? Do you really, really know Me? Then know the Awakening is coming to your nation. The Awakening is already beginning; there are those throughout your nation who are beginning to understand My love for them in ways never before expressed. They are starting to see that no matter their circumstance, the worst to the best, I will never leave them nor forsake them. It is the knowing what you know and that you know it—Hope in the midst of the difficulty.

The Awakening is a new way of living one’s life in Truth and Hope. The Awakening is about understanding that living one’s life for the world’s ways of prosperity only brings grief and pain and misery; not a way of living life to its fullest, but being imprisoned by greed and materialism which fuels selfishness and self-centeredness. The Awakening is a movement. It is having one’s eyes opened; no longer blinded by the trappings of the world system. The Awakening begins in the midst of the worst of circumstances; the beginning of the cleansing/purification (of the heart) process.

It is as if My children, the Church, have fallen asleep; they occupy but they cease to seek and search to be treasure hunters. They are like beggars waiting for crumbs; they do not seek Me, the giver of all gifts, as the treasure I am. They occupy. Even when they show up to participate, they are immersed in the world’s ways and values. They no longer strive to learn about Me; they receive hand outs from those as deceived as they. Wisdom and knowledge has been rejected and entertainment has become their pacifier. A relationship with their Creator, the Creator of the Universe, has been tossed aside as relationships/chatter consumes them. It is not they know not the right words—they have the education, but lack the character to fulfill their purposes. The Awakening will be a time when the hearts will be cleansed and purified and what is left, once their deception is peeled back (layer after layer,) will be Truth, Hope and Grace.

What is it you desire more than all else? Where do you come in your time of need? Who do you seek to find what you do not know? When others don’t have time, who do you go to for comfort? When all begins to fall around you, you will seek to find what others have not thought to seek. .... You asked about Awakening—your awakening occurred many years before.”

From a portion of a writing dated 4/21/2011: “... The events to come are not designed as an attack against you or your nation to destroy; it will be a time of renewal of Hope, regeneration of a life to be lived as it was intended, and rejuvenation of those who have fallen asleep. This will be a time of Revival—reviving what has been cast down and cast out and taking back/reclaiming what has been lost. This will be a time unlike any you have experienced; those who have hid themselves (shut down and shut out) will emerge with Vim, Vigor, and Vitality as only a captive who has been set free can be. Many in your nation will suffer great pain and many will not survive. It will be a harrowing time; a time of grief, pain and sorrow, but it will also be a time when those who seek to know Me will know and discover a love never experienced before. Like you, Debbie, they will come to know Me as their All-in-All—their friend, counselor, priest, doctor, their Hope when all Hope seems to fade. ....”
