

The Birthing of a New Day

But first, the Storm must Come!!!

Before I was given writings* that began in 1998, I was given dreams and a couple visions. I still have these type dreams from time to time, but only a few. But I remember this one dream I had—it was so vivid. I was standing high up in some rocks along with Jesus by my side and looking into a canyon where I saw a multitude of people moving in the same direction who were trudging in muck and mire up to their chests and holding something green up into the air to keep it clean—it was their money. With that image, the writing I share next from 12/4/2007 and the others will be better understood.

From a writing received from the Lord through the Holy Spirit, dated 12/4/2007: “... Today like other days you have been shown the meaning of the multitudes crawling on bellies in muck and mire trying to protect their money.” Debbie asks: “Lord, where are they going?” “Debbie, these are the men and women, some I call My children amongst those of the world following the world system. They are filled overflowing with selfishness, self-centeredness, and independence fighting one another to reach a destination of futility: hopelessness, helplessness, uselessness which they believe to be success. Debbie asks: “Lord what can be done to help them?”

His reply: “Debbie, a great storm of unimaginable magnitude is poised ready to strike releasing its fury on those who are unsuspecting. Debbie, it will come with great force. It will consume any in its path; many will greet the morning and venture out into the day but will not return home. Children will be abandoned, waiting for parents who have become too stunned to retrieve their children. Life in an instant will switch and the masses trudging through the muck and mire and following the world system to multitudes seeking Truth, Hope, and Love.

The multitudes that you saw from the precipice will switch direction. They will no longer be crawling. In a panic, they will be running/stampeding looking for safety but not finding a safe place. Debbie, they will run to and fro and have no peace. ....”

From a writing dated 2/13/2008: “...The cities that rise into the clouds will be surprised by the fury of the release. This will be much like the devastation observed in recent tornadic storms. It will be as though volcanos have started erupting in the cities—spewing ash into the skies to be seen for miles and miles. Those who observe the fury of the destruction will be so shocked and overwhelmed that for some, their hearts will stop in horror.

This will happen much like the surprise of the devastation in September 11, 2001. It will happen during the day. It will take everyone by surprise. It will be as though time/life stopped as the moment is seared into the hearts and minds of all Americans and even those outside your country. Like rats abandoning a sinking ship, people will scatter and run to and fro seeking to find safety. They will wait for someone/govt. to ease their discomfort, however, there will be little, if any, assistance. They will grow angrier and angrier as their discomfort worsens and will feel justified in any action they do in order to survive.

In addition to their physical discomfort, they will realize that all they depended on (their security, finances) are gone. They will no longer have a job. Their houses will be cold and uninhabitable; they will be forced into shelters. They had believed that nothing like this could possibly happen and now they find themselves in the midst of a nightmare, but it is all too real. ....”

From a writing dated 8/31/2007: "... Debbie, a great storm is coming. The black cloud that hovers above is filled to capacity with evil and soon will unleash its fury on those who are unsuspecting. The wrath of the storm will be ever reaching from the heart of the child to the heart of the elderly man. The wrath of the storm will come with a vengeance and a ferocity unlike anything you have seen. The wrath of the storm will engulf many who stand in its path. The wrath of the storm will be violent. The wrath of the storm will be immense. The wrath of the storm will be overflowing with pain, misery, heartache, heart break. The wrath of the storm will be far reaching—much farther than you think. The wrath of the storm will be so chilling that many hearts will freeze upon its arrival. The wrath of the storm will leave devastation in its midst. The wrath of the storm will cause many to doubt My love for them.

The wrath of the storm is not My making. The wrath of the storm is coming. ... Prepare, Prepare, Prepare, for the wrath of this storm is of a magnitude not understandable, not imaginable—not experienced. When you hear with the ears of the Lord, you do not hear as others. When you experience with the heart of the Lord, you do not experience as others. Do not be afraid as you see the storm cloud start to rain. Know I will never leave you nor forsake you...."

From 8/3/2007: "... When the blackest of black cloud releases its fury, you are to shelter and cover. When the blackest of black cloud releases its fury, you are to live, to have Hope, knowing a New Day of restitution will emerge. ... When the blackest of black cloud releases its fury, know you will not be forgotten or cast away in any way. Know that life as you currently live it will cease. For a time, it may seem as though your own life has ended, but beyond the darkness of night there is a new day as the Sun rises in the morning.

Mine is a heart filled to overflowing with love for My people. They will hurt for a time, but in the midst of the chaos and calamity, many will turn to Me and I will keep My promises. As their hearts are healed, I will heal their land. ... Everyday the cloud becomes blacker. Everyday the evil becomes more powerful. Everyday the threat becomes more real and destruction of mass proportion closer. The plans were set in motion. There will be no turning back. You will wake up to a day very, very soon in which you will experience nothing like you have experienced before or will you ever want to experience again.

Mourn for the souls who are lost. Rejoice for those who live yet another day and can turn their hearts to the Lord and live their lives in Eternal Life in Heaven. Cry for those who are broken, lost, confused and pray they seek the Lord with their whole heart, mind, and soul."

From 7/27/2007: "... The clouds are covering your nation. The black cloud becomes darker and darker. You will know as it begins to pour forth its fury. .... The rain will start and then it will pour forth a deluge of discontentment, fear, disappointment, discouragement, and disillusionment. Men will despise one another. They will blame anyone and everyone for their misery. They will run to and fro. .... They will beg for it all to end, yet the pain will continue ... The days will be long. The days will be dark. The days will be difficult, even for the most hardened soldier. ... In the midst of the most difficult storms, I am there with them. I will never leave you nor forsake you. I am coming back soon. ... To find the most important part requires one to surrender that which prohibits one from finding what is most valuable..."

From 8/31/2007 continued: "... This is a time of rebirth, renewal, regeneration. It is a time for hearts to be filled to overflowing with Love, Honor, and Grace. It is a time for men to take their places and women to embrace their love of their lives. It is a time to end the pursuing of selfishness and self-centered ambitions. It is a time for gathering of God's Manna. ... They will know that I am their Heavenly Father, the giver of all good and perfect gifts. They will know that I am the great I AM, capable of caring for His children. They will see that I love them with a Heart to Overflowing and those who turn to me in their time of trouble, I will give peace that surpasses all understanding. ..."

From a writing 2/21/2009: "...What you will see will sicken you. What you will see will disturb you. What you will see will cause your heart to question My love for you and others. Yet in the midst of despair, you will carry Hope. You will know that evil caused what you have seen, but I will take what evil meant for their destruction and I will call My people to Me. I will cover them as a mother hen covers her chicks and I will protect them. ... My people will be burdened with Hearts of despair, pain, sorrow and fear. They will think that I caused this evil to come upon them in Judgement. They will not understand My unconditional love I have for them. They will feel I have abandoned them; rejected and feeling dejected, they will be tempted to run and hide from Me. But, Debbie, you know the truth. Time and again, you have seen and even experienced firsthand that My ways are difficult, but those who are willing to follow Me find treasure; they will truly live life more abundantly. ... I will take them to the wells of refreshment. I will give them the food of renewal. They will breathe new life of regeneration. They will be revitalized as if brought forth from the dead with Hope, overflowing. They will have vigor and vitality to SOAR and to Dance and Sing. They will know that I am their God, their Heavenly Father who loves them just as I have shown you, Debbie. ... Prepare to Cover/Shelter. ...."

From 11/24/2007: ".... My heart grieves for the sadness and pain that My children will endure. .... There will be a time of Rejoicing as they come closer and closer to My love and their purpose. But first will be a time of great grief, sorrow, and pain. I have heard their cries—cries that are much like those of a woman in child birth. New Life is being birthed; it will come through them. This will be a time in history like none experienced before. My children will come forth; a transformation will have taken place. They will be the same, yet they will be entirely different. They will be filled overflowing with Hope. They will carry a purpose in their heart, and passion fired and ready to fulfill their purpose. ... What evil meant for their destruction, I will turn around for the good of My Kingdom. I will never leave nor forsake not one of My children. Many will come to live with Me. Some will suffer physically and mentally. All will be affected in some way. I will never leave not even one; they are My children. The dark cloud will loose its fury on the unsuspecting. The devastation of unimaginable proportions will remain. And My Grace and Glory and Love will cover in abundance; saturating every corner of the land. I will not forsake My children. They will not be beggars. My children will rise out of the ashes as Kings; ready to assume the position as dominion over My Kingdom on the Earth. A New Day is being birthed. Behind the dark cloud, the Sun is rising. A New Day is coming unlike any day seen thus far."

From 12/15/2007: "... The New Day will produce all that you have ever hoped for. The days prior will be days of cleansing, of sanctifying, of grieving and mourning. It will be a time of birthing a New Day; a day of starting over. A day with new focus. It will be a day where old nature will be replaced with a zeal, a zest, a vitality of new Hope never discovered; new treasure never uncovered; new life never partaken. There will be time for laughter, time for love, time for Hope. It is not I who brings disaster on My people, but I will take what was meant for evil and their destruction, and I will resurrect what has since died and breathe new life into it. From the ashes that fall, I will cause JOY, Hope, and Love to indwell all My people. I will supply power and strength as they have never known. I will build My people and they will in turn build My Kingdom on Earth, overflowing with Hope, Love and Joy. So you are not to focus on the disaster coming because it must come, but focus on the New Day; the new birth, the resurrection, the breathing of life into that which has died."

From 12/26/2007: ".... The darkness will come and it too will pass. As the New Day emerges, as in the Spring, evidence will become apparent. You will see signs blossoming and bursting forth. Watch for hearts being renewed. Watch for singing to return. Watch for Hope being instilled in My people. As Hope begins to blossom, passion will ignite. As passion ignites a fire will burn in the hearts of My people. It will be an all consuming fire that ignites anything and anyone in its path. But not with a fire of destruction, but of Hope, everlasting. The fire will spread quickly enveloping even the most difficult convert. The first will be so overwhelming that the weakest of the weak will rise up. Debbie, the fire will consume with white hot purifying fire that will engulf and destroy the trappings that enslave their hearts. ... A day of birth of a New Day. A day/New Day that starts the greatest Revival ...."

From 3/18/2008: "... There are tests and trials to not only be endured but are to be overcome and celebrated having been completed with Thanksgiving. My people perish for they know not My love. As they begin to see/experience My love for them, they will see Me as their Provider, their Shield, their Comforter, their Teacher, and their Heavenly Father. I long to hear them call out My name; not because they are afraid or frustrated or exasperated or are in need, but because they want to share their lives with Me. I want to hear their Hopes and Dreams. I want to show them all I have ready for them. I want them to be overflowing with Hope. I want to see them shine with My love as it is reflected from Me to them and shone onto others. I want them to be filled with Joy overflowing in Praise and Worship breaking forth with Happiness and a Heart filled with Love and Hope. I want to give them the desires of their Hearts.

Debbie, you know the feelings of desolation, the brokenness, the longings, the sadness, the grief, the overwhelming fear. Your nation will experience what only a few will be ready to overcome. Change will be overwhelming. But with Change will emerge a New Day. The New Day will bring about all that the storm has left lacking. The New Day will be a season of Hope. What was, will no longer be, but what is, will be unbelievable/unimaginable. As harsh as the path of the storm was, the New Day, the Season of Hope, will be Jubilant. Freedom will indeed ring across your nation. ...."

From 12/8/2007: "... The days from now until then are days to be lived not in fear, but in celebration. ... I didn't send warnings to imprison you. I have sent warnings to empower you so you can be prepared for such a day of devastation. ... Those who hear My voice will be ready. ... This too shall pass and a New Day will emerge; a day of beauty, Hope, and everlasting love."

As one who understands the selfish, self-centered nature of man and has documented for a couple of decades and now has shared at this website what the Lord has taught her through the leading of the Holy Spirit, I so long for the New Day when we will shed of our selfish self-centered natures and will truly be able to love one another as we have been created to be/do. As I have been shown it will be leaders of nations seeking power, even world domination, that will bring the destruction and devastation to our nation. From a writing dated 4/18/2008: "... Evil has caused this tragedy to be planned and implemented. Men whose hearts are not Saved by the Grace of Jesus know not truth; they believe lies that have been perpetrated and cultivated; deception so entrenched that their hearts have grown so cold that any flicker/spark of love has been overpowered by Hate that drives them. A person who no longer knows love is Evil and is unstoppable only by Death. Evil people drive others to commit acts that are unimaginable. Whether it be because of fear, for power, for security, monetary gain, with little to no hope and consumed by deception, someone who looks to be very incapable in the command of Evil becomes unstoppable in the mission they have been programmed to carry out. Almost like robots, they are no longer able to make choices; only actions to carry out their missions. You question Why would the Creator of the Universe let something so horrific happen in your nation? Debbie, God loves all people not just those in your nation. To interrupt what is currently planned would cause more hatred and more evil. It is not for My creations to question but to trust and have faith that all things work for the good for those who love Me and are called according to My purpose. The Path of Life awaits My children. ...."
